

Fleadh Door Steward

About Comhaltas in Britain

Comhaltas in Britain is part of the worldwide movement called Comhaltas Ceoltóirí Éireann. It is the largest worldwide organisation devoted to the promotion and preservation of Irish Traditional music, song, dance and language. Our mission is to bring a community of all ages together to learn, share and experience the music and culture of Ireland.

What does a Door Steward do?

Door stewards are essential to the smooth running of competitions and ensuring competitors are not distracted by unnecessary movement during their performances. It is also the responsibility of the door steward to ensure anyone entering any competition room is wearing an appropriate fleadh wristband or has a ticket.

Location

Comhaltas in Britain is split into 4 regions: London & Southern, Midlands, Northern, Scotland. Each region has their own regional Fleadh and Provincial Fleadh called the All-Britain.

Competition Rules & Processes

One way system: There is likely to be a one way system in place. This will be made clear within the venue. Performance:

Doors: Doors must be closed prior to each performance, and remain closed until competitors leave the stage. Do not open the door between tunes, this only causes delays and is distracting to competitors. The number of pieces each competitor is expected to play varies depending on age group and competition. The door should be closed for adjudicator feedback and results.

What will you get out of it?

- Meet new people
- Add value to your community
- Learn new transferable skills
- Enhance your CV

Skills and knowledge required

- People skills
- Organised and time keeping skills
- Experience of clerking is desirable
- Good communication skills

Further information

- Expenses covered

- Reporting to Fleadh secretary
- DBS check may be required